

Cross Coupling Cable Protector - SH68-CC

Available in 4 1/2" to 30 "sizes + any special sizes

The SledgeHammer's Cross Coupling Cable Protectors are manufactured from high integrity carbon steel. Protectors can also be made in a range of other materials including stainless steel and Cast steels. Cross Coupling Cable Protector is tubing case centralizer which is not only used to centralize (keep standoff) the casing but also to provide protection to down hole casing cables. All Cross Coupling Cable Protectors to protect and support ESP cable, control lines, umbilical lines or encapsulated bundles and injection lines in the well bore for wells completed with artificial lift.